Moisture is a leading cause of construction callbacks. In multifamily, mixed-use, and light commercial projects, these kinds of callbacks can be very costly. Attend this session for a better understanding of the details that hinder moisture management performance, and learn more about wall assemblies that are designed to improve it. You'll explore a "good-better-best" strategy for wall assemblies. Plus, get a look at some proven products and a preview of some exciting new products entering the market.
